Reasons for Allowance

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: one of the primary reasons for the allowance of the claims in this application is the limitations of a container including a substantially cylindrical non-stretching main body having a hollow interior, at least one rearwardly-positioned vertically extending structural strip integral to the main body that is configured and positioned to prevent collapse of the top opening, the at least one vertically extending strip extending substantially across the height dimension, at least one horizontally extending structural strip integral with the main body and at a minimum substantially encircling the main body, the at least one horizontally extending strip structurally joined to the at least one vertically extending strip, the container made with open-weave material configured to allow air circulation through the main body adjacent to and adjoining the at least one horizontally extending strip and at least one vertically extending strip, the strips and the top portion of the container being made from non-open weave material, and a quick-release fastener means, now included in independent claim 1 and in combination with the other elements recited in the claim.
